Novelty, inventive step, and industrial applicability (Item V)

Claim 1

1. From US6302101 (D1) (see column 26, lines 47-67 and figures 9 and 10) there is a tube for application for a container with a built-in pump known, in which the tube includes:
 - an internal cross section of an inside for flow of a liquid,
 - an external cross section of the tube, which is larger than the internal cross section,
 - a first end with a first opening for intake of the liquid, and in which the first end includes fastening means for fastening of the tubes on the container and
 - another end with an opening part, which includes another opening for discharge of the liquid,wherein the other end further encompassing a barrier part (3102), where the barrier part (3102) edges towards the opening part (3108), so that this blocks for the mentioned other opening, where at least the barrier part or the opening part is of an elastic material, so that the liquid can be pressed out through the mentioned other opening passing the barrier part after a deformation of at least the barrier part or the opening part.
3. The subject-matter of dependent claims 2-4, 6 and 10 is also known from (D1).
4. Thus, it appears that the subject-matter of claims 1-4, 6 and 10 is not new as required by Article 33(2) PCT.

Claims 5 and 7-9

5. The features of the above mentioned claims, however, does not seem to constitute a difference which could lead to subject-matter involving an inventive step according to Article 33(3) PCT.
